BOTH SIDES

By Harold Parrott

NOTES IN PASSING—Oh, mother! That magazine cover who's going after the women's national singles tennis title at Forest Hills in the next few days is Jinx Falkenburg . . . And no matter what the scores of her matches are, she'll beat the rest of those poor gals, from where I sit! . . . Jinx is a good tennis player, but her brothers Tom and Bob, who'll be in the men's singles play, are real comers . . . Ma, boss of the Flushing, L. I. Falkenburgs, transplanted to Hollywood, is going to play in the women's veterans tournament . . .

The Football Dodgers training at Princeton, N. J., are still baseball-minded, what with the heat and everything; said one to another yesterday, picking up a football: "Get out there and I'll kick you a few flies!" . . . Mrs. Effa Manley, and quite a lady she is, is bringing her Newark Eagles, who once were the Brooklyn Eagles anyway, back to Ebbets Field a week from Sunday for a Negro doubleheader against the Homestead Grays . . . Dodgers will be at the Polo Grounds that weekend . . .

Schroeder drew the nod over Frankie Parker of Los Angeles, who outranks him nationally, on the strength of victories in the Southampton and Rye tournaments, but it's regarded as a wide-open tournament. Miss Brough, 19, stepped in front of four rivals who were ahead of her in 1941 national rankings because of her clean sweep in the current Eastern grass court tournaments.

Parker Seeded Second

Parker was seeded second to Schroeder; Gardnar Mulloy, Jacksonville, Fla., third; Billy Talbert, Cincinnati, fourth; Sidney B. Wood Jr., New York, fifth; Seymour Greenberg, Chicago, national clay court champion, sixth; Harris Everett, Jacksonville, seventh, and George Richards, Montebello, Cal., eighth.

Ranked below Miss Brough were Pauline Betz, Los Angeles, second; Margaret Osborne, San Francisco, third; Helen Bernhard, New York, fourth; Mary Arnold, Los Angeles, fifth; Mrs. Patricia Canning Todd, New York, sixth; Doris Hart, Miami Beach, Fla., seventh, and Helen Rihbany, New York, eighth.

Francisco (Pancho) Segura, the little Ecuadorian with the two-handed attack, led the foreign seeded players. Winner of five clay court tournaments, Segura became one of the favorites when he scored his first win in the Longwood week.

Ladislav Nedetzka, Davis Cup champion in the forehand, Russell, and to the top aspect were St. Lucia, Buse, Peru.
